You met the world with fierce intent,
And a stubborn, honest heart.
You never broke, you never bent;
You taught us how to be smart.
You held us to a higher light,
And set a relentless pace.
Though the road was hard, your soul was bright—
A shield of grit and grace.
The strongest woman we ever knew
Has set her spirit free.
We are the legacy of you,
And all you fought to be.
