When I Must Leave You

When I must leave you for a little while, please do not grieve and shed wild tears and hug your sorrow to you through the years, but start out bravely with a gallant smile; and for my sake and in my name live on and do all things the same. Feed not your loneliness on empty days, but fill each waking hour in useful ways. Reach out your hand in comfort and in cheer and I in turn will comfort you and hold you near; and never, never be afraid to die, for I am waiting for you in the sky!

“ My husband paid you to give him comfort when I was going through chemo. Can't thank you enough for taking the trash out for me when I was too weak to move and too sick to notice he was stealing my pain meds. It was the worst time of my life, but somehow I survived. I hope you're both experiencing exactly what you inflicted on earth.

“ I was thinking about you today. I love and miss you so much. You were part of the best memories in my life. You're the most beautiful person I've known, inside and out. I'll always remember you like this. You're our real Angel.

“ Jessica Its always going to hurt me that you're no longer here. We knew each other for so long. When you moved out here from Dayton, we were so different from each other. But we immediately connected through our taste in music. That expanded into many other things, and we maintained that connection as we grew up. Over the years we distanced ourselves from time to time. But only via reasons we could not control. But whenever we were able to, we touched base & wouldn't let go. Such a beautiful person inside and out. You were my longest lasting friend. Well, you still are my friend. So it's not goodbye, it's "I'll see you soon." As this is just like any other time when we distanced ourselves. Rest easy Beautiful. I will always love you.
