Miss Me but Let Me Go

When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me I want no rites in a gloom-filled room. Why cry for a soul that's set free. Miss me a little, but not too long and not with your head bowed low. Remember the love that we once shared. Miss me, but let me go. For this is a journey that we all must take and each must go alone. It's all a part of the Master's plan, a step on the road to home. When you are lonely and sick of heart, go to the friends we knew and laugh at the things that we used to do. Miss me, but let me go.

“ My father has been gone a year today. He was funny at times, a hard worker, and had his own unique way of expressing his love. I think about and miss him so much every day. My only wish is that I had more time with him. I love you daddy, forever.

“ John's family is here in Nevada to honor his one year anniversary of him no longer being here, and no longer with us. We loved him so much and we miss him so very much. John had a wonderful wife who cared about him deeply. John was fortunate to have her as a loving and caring partner. John had his own mindset..that was understood..but John is now watching over us. We will love John from HERE TO ETERNITY!
