August 22, 1967 - October 13, 2020

Old Irish Blessing

May the road rise up to meet you, May the wind be always at your back, May the sun shine warm upon your face, And all the rains fall soft upon your fields, And until we meet again, May God hold you in the palm of His hand.

“ A shock to the system. Ms. Deluce is the immortal teacher that we all still talk about and remember no way except fondly. You're why I love to read, Ms. Deluce, and why I still have some of my best friends. Rest easy. <3 Say hi to Tonks and Lupin for us.

“ I'm at a loss for words to be learning of such a bright light of a human to no longer be with us. She was my fourth grade teacher for a brief time and she somehow still managed to shape so much of who I was and am today in such a little time. I hadn't met anyone so passionate about Harry Potter up until I got placed in her class. We went on for days and days about what could possibly happen in the final book and I remember racing each other to read it. Her being an adult, she was able to get the book at midnight and she nearly finished it by the time she got to class. She waited for me to get it before saying anything about it. She never held back any large words knowing she'd tell me them or I would look it up in the dictionary. She is one of the few people who truly inspired me to always learn and create. I am writing a book series and placed her name as a homage before learning she had passed away and it's an extremely bittersweet moment. May she rest in peace in a never ending library filled with love and light.

“ Ms. Deluce was my fourth grade teacher. She was so fun and lit up the whole classroom. I remember her showing our class her love for Harry Potter and her park ranger stories. It's very sad that isn't she is not with us anymore but I won't forget how much she helped me.

“ Mrs. Deluce was my third grade teacher. She was the funniest, coolest, most loving teacher I have ever had. She always motivated me to do my best and always would cheer me on , saying "you can do it" ! She always would refer to me as "her naughty pickle", she was like my best friend. I will miss you Mrs. Deluce, love Always, Yarelli Martinez

Mrs. Deluce I will always Thank You for leaving such wonderful memories for my child. There was never a day my child would come home from school not happy. You always brighten my child's day regardless of the struggle she was going through. You left such great memories she still remembers them as if it was yesterday, and now she is in fifth grade. You will be missed dearly may you now rest in heaven. Always Christina Rivera
