Margaret Elizabeth "Maggi" Biegler

June 10, 1948 – December 16, 2025

Margaret Elizabeth Biegler, known affectionately as Maggi to all who loved her, passed away peacefully on December 16, 2025 in Henderson, Nevada. Born on June 10, 1948 in Los Angeles, California, Maggi graduated from Ulysses S. Grant High School in Los Angeles in 1966. Maggi spent her 77 years spreading warmth through her kindness and her kitchen.

A true Californian at heart, Maggi's professional life was as vibrant as the city she grew up in. Over the years, she worked at some of the most prestigious landmarks in the world, including the Beverly Hilton, the Beverly Wilshire, and the Beverly Hills Hotel. Her career placed her at the center of Hollywood's golden era, where she had the pleasure of meeting iconic figures such as Ronald and Nancy Reagan, and even her personal favorite artist, Elvis Presley.

Beyond her career, Maggi's heart belonged to the simple joys of the West Coast. She was an extraordinary cook with a passion for California cuisine, and her "happy place" was always the serene shores of Catalina Island where she felt most at peace. Maggi was a remarkably loving and caring person who prioritized her family above all else.

She has now gone home to be reunited with her beloved parents, Shipman and Juanita Biegler, and her dear sisters, Maryanne Northcutt and Susan McMullen.

Her legacy of kindness lives on through her nieces and nephews: Floyd Northcutt, Shipman Northcutt, Samantha Northcutt, Louisa Northcutt, Andy McMullen, and Brian McMullen. She will be deeply missed, but her spirit will be remembered every time a classic Elvis song plays or the Pacific tide hits the shore.

Services for Maggi will be announced at a later date.
