A Fallen Limb

A limb has fallen from the family tree. I keep hearing a voice that says, "Grieve not for me. Remember the best times, the laughter, the song. The good life I lived while I was strong. Continue my heritage, I'm counting on you. Keep smiling and surely the sun will shine through. My mind is at ease, my soul is at rest. Remembering all, how I truly was blessed. Continue traditions, no matter how small. Go on with your life, don't worry about falls. I miss you all dearly, so keep up your chin. Until the day comes we're together again."

“ I'll miss EVERYTHING about you! You were truly a real friend (and sister-from-another-mother) from the first time we met. So sorry to know that you're no longer with us. But, I know that now at least you're no longer suffering physically and mentally. And, I feel like you'll be forever looking over all of us earning your deserved Angel Wings. I'll NEVER FORGET YOU!!! May you rest in peace, my "Mamacita."

“ I will Always remember our fun days together and how I always admired your long blonde hair and your beautiful bright bluish green Eyes. My Dear Cousin

“ I really convinced myself we'd have a few more years together. There's so many things I would have done different if I had realized how close we were to the end but I'm glad the last time you were fully alert you saw me smiling down at you, and laughing, and teasing and giving you a kiss. I love you mom and I will always miss you.
