October 20, 1946 - May 14, 2022

When winter arrives, trees and other plants temporarily lose their leaves. But those plants and trees possess the life to send forth new green shoots when spring comes. Human death is like that, but we possess a life force that leads us to a new life-to a new mission-immediately and without pain. - Daisaku Ikeda

“ Sending my condolences, love, and light to Ms. Oliver’s family. She was one of the best teacher’s I’ve ever had and made a such an impact on me as a rambunctious adolescent growing up in the projects of East Oakland. Because of Ms. Oliver, amongst a few other teachers, she was the reason why I went into education. Ms. Oliver left a legacy and I hope this brings some comfort to her family.- Samantha Nov (Havenscourt Middle School `05)
