

Rose Sardina

October 19, 1938 - August 8, 2021

From Within (A Eulogy for Rosemarie) 10/19/1938 - 08/08/2021

How does one eulogize about a life
Of any daughter, sister, mother wife?
How does a friend, her child, ever begin?
...and then I heard it...
"from within".

So, this is not a day of sorrow
I know this Rose will bloom tomorrow
You may have known her as Rosemarie
A valedictorian with a rosary
But, one thing stands out time and again
She was always someone you could call friend.
"Out of the bad the good does come."
Always an optimistic mum!
It is her strength and love that makes me grin.
You know where it comes from...
from within!
There is not much one can say
To take the sting out of today
Today is anything BUT a sad goodbye

If you knew my mother, you'll know why.
She came through some pretty rough stuff
And still, she loved.
That's enough.

All we thought, doesn't matter somehow.
All that matters: Is (her)e and now.
Her life will not end with this gathering of friends
This is but a moment where Rose transcends.
Yes, "Thy will be done", but never complete
Until a Rose lay at your feet.
"Thy will be done!" Yes,
But it is far from over.
Our beloved Rose is now a four-leafed clover!
MickeyJames
Beloved Son

Tribute Wall

“ Rose Sardina

Melodie Swartzbaugh - August 12, 2021 at 12:11 PM