Miss Me but Let Me Go

When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me I want no rites in a gloom-filled room. Why cry for a soul that's set free. Miss me a little, but not too long and not with your head bowed low. Remember the love that we once shared. Miss me, but let me go. For this is a journey that we all must take and each must go alone. It's all a part of the Master's plan, a step on the road to home. When you are lonely and sick of heart, go to the friends we knew and laugh at the things that we used to do. Miss me, but let me go.

“ Sal was a high school friend and continued to be my friend and associate at our law firm for years. I will always cherish the time I spent around Sal. He was so funny and witty. But a great lawyer.

SA

“ My deepest condolences to his family. Sal served on the CCBA's Board of Directors before serving as CCBA President in 1996. He served as Master of Ceremonies for the CCBA's 40 Year Club events for several years. He was well known to readers of the bar journal Communiqué. He served as contributing editor and wrote the humor column, "Ask Mr. Lawyer," for the for many years. Often, he'd call me after emailing his column for publication. "Did you get it? What do you think?" And we'd laugh together. He had a great guffaw. He had an entertaining sense of humor and a heart of gold. I miss you, Sal.
