January 28, 1954 - October 24, 2024

In Loving Memory of Susan A. Samavatian?1954-2024

Susan A. Samavatian, a remarkable and resilient woman, passed away at the age of 70. For 23 years, she served the San Bernardino County Court with dedication, earning respect and admiration as a strong and successful Black woman who inspired everyone she met.

Though Susan faced the challenge of losing her sight, she never let it limit her. Her independence and resourcefulness were awe-inspiring. She took care of herself with unwavering determination and allowed those she trusted to guide her when needed. I was honored that Susan let me help her, a gesture of trust and connection that I will always cherish.

Music brought immense joy to Susan's life, and she especially loved Parliament and George Clinton's soulful funk. Earlier this year, I had the privilege of accompanying her to a Parliament concert at the Palms Casino in Las Vegas. Watching her sing along, radiant with happiness, will remain one of my most treasured memories.

Susan often spoke of her family, who had passed before her-her brother Eric and her parents, Dorothy Gadberry and her father. She missed them deeply and kept their memory alive in her heart.

Though I only knew Susan for the past two years, her presence in my life was transformative. She taught me lessons in self-worth and strength, often reminding me, "You're somebody. Don't ever let someone tell you you're not worthy." Her words were a reflection of her own powerful spirit. Susan will be remembered for her strength, grace, and the profound impact she had on those around her.

May she rest in peace, reunited with her beloved family and forever surrounded by the music she adored.
